

Parent Research Study: Problem Solving for Caregivers of Children with Mental Health Problems

Study #0906-01B

Indiana University School of Nursing is conducting a research study examining a problem-solving intervention using the telephone for caregivers of children with mental health problems. The purpose of this study is to examine how well the intervention works and what to do to make it better.

Who Can Participate?

Primary caregivers (parents—biological, adoptive, foster parents, relatives or guardians) of a child with a mental health problem who:

- (a) has received mental health services in the community within the past year (at home, in-patient, school-based, etc.);
- (b) has lived at home for at least 20 of the past 24 months; and
- (c) is between the ages of 11 and 16 years when beginning the study.

You will receive gift cards for participation in the study
